

Great Cyclopean Owl
Bubo Cyclopeam
The Oddubon Collection

Peering outward with ocular magnificence, Bubo Cyclopeam had what Oddubon described as “the great eye of all seeing.” From his perches high above the fray of normal creatures, The Great Cyclopean Owl uses his one eye to discern even the smallest and most miniscule of movements. With a hoot which pierces the darkest night, Bubo Cyclopeam narrows on its prey, swoops with mighty grace, and achieves its aim.

Howard Dale
ART & ILLUSTRATION
HowardDale.com